WE NOMINATE

Frederick Harris Harbison, nationally known arbitrator, professor and consultant in industrial relations, who was catapaulted into the spotlight this past week as successor to James Douglas Brown as Director of the University's 33-year old Industrial Relations Section, the first organization of its kind and one of the few privately-sustained research agencies ever to merit the wholehearted support of private industry and national labor unions. In becoming the third director of the unit, that has accomplished miracles during the past three decades under Brown's leadership, the 44-year old Harbison after an absence of 15 years has returned to the campus where he won recognition as an undergraduate and later as a research assistant in industrial relations.

A Phi Beta Kappa member of the Princeton Class of 1934, and a letterman in track as well as an officer of the Triangle Club, Harbison made a name for himself far beyond the confines of Princeton with the publication of a senior thesis concerning a homestead development in his native Allegheny County, Pennsylvania. This was subsequently used by the City of Pittsburgh in a plea for a $200,000 appropriation and, when the matter came before a Congressional Committee, Harbison was called to the stand and delivered an hour's extemporaneous address. In the late 1930's, in the process of gaining his doctorate, he attracted a similar degree of attention with the preparation of "Collective Bargaining in the Steel Industry, 1937: . . ." and a series of studies relating to seniority policies and procedures.

Harbison, the younger brother of a Professor of History (whose appointment now permits the University to list three "brother acts" among its senior faculty members), has been associated with the University of Chicago since 1940 and for the past year has been on leave in Europe and the Near East, making comparative studies of management and labor problems under a joint project sponsored by Chicago, the University of California, Harvard and M.I.T. At Chicago, besides serving as Professor of Industrial Relations, he has been Executive Officer of the Industrial Relations Center that has been eminently successful in providing instruction and training programs for management and union executives.

His far-flung activities, which during World War II included filling a succession of posts such as labor consultant to the Office of Production Management and manpower consultant to the War Production Board, bodes well for the continued effectiveness of a section that in the past 14 years has received more than $550,000 for permanent endowment from 81 corporations and eight national unions. In more recent years he has been Arbitrator for the Chicago Joint Board of the Men's Clothing Industry, Chairman of the U.A.W.-C.I.O. International Harvester Joint Pension Board and Acting Chairman for the Board of Conciliation and Arbitration, U. S. Steel and U. S. Workers, CIO.

For seeking to establish broader channels of communication between management, labor and government; for using "successful experience rather than academic approval" as a yardstick in the all-important area of industrial relations; for believing with his predecessor this his new Section must excel in the quality of services rendered rather than grow in size; he is Town Topics' nominee for

This Week

In TOWN TOPICS' 28 pages this week, you'll find stories ranging from a report on the future of the Township's contruversial zoning ordinance and another on the financial status of its multi-million dollar shopping center, to an article on a Princeton professor who told the U. S. Weather Bureau at the height of impending hurricane Ione that the storm would blow itself out before reaching here.

"Picture stories" on the Borough's mounting traffic problems and on the interesting day-to-day work of the Princeton-headquartered State Police are among the other features. A review of the forthcoming concert season; a report on the Community Players' plans for the year; and sports stories on opening football games this Saturday for Princeton University and the high school are other highlights. Six pages of classified ads at the back of the issue provide a wide variety of opportunities (and diversion) for everyone.

Topics of the Town

Dr. Howland Arrested. The tragic effect of narcotics on human lives was fully demonstrated to the Princeton community this week when one of its young doctors, Dr. Jonathan Howland of 105 Bayard Lane, was arrested on two charges of illegally obtaining narcotic drugs.

Apparently the victim of his own medication, Dr. Howland was arrested at noon Tuesday at his home. He was questioned for three and a half hours at Borough Hall —during which time he reportedly signed a confession—and then was released under $5,000 bail pending arraignment and an eventual appearance before the Mercer County grand jury.

An unusually able, 37-year-old physician, who has practiced medicine in Princeton for the past seven years, Dr. Howland had been under investigation for several months, by Detective Sgt. Phillip Wittcoff of the State Police narcotics squad. Sgt. Wittcoff, with the aid of Lt. Frank Bird of the Princeton police department, apprehended the doctor in the Borough inasmuch as the two specific counts in the complaint involved August purchases of demerol (a synthetic drug) and morphine sulphate, an oplum derivative, from two borough drug stores.

The State Police investigator, having traced Dr. Howland's activities back to October of last year, said there were other violations of the high misdemeanor —including illegal purchases of demerol and morphine sulphate in Pennington, Hopewell, Cranbury and Trenton—which would be brought to the attention of the grand jury. Only the two Borough instances, Sgt. Wittcoff pointed out, were needed for the doctor's arrest and his appearance here before Magistrate Paul R. Chesebro.

State Police investigation of the case allegedly revealed that Dr. Howland wrote out narcotic prescriptions for different patients, then went to various drug stores himself and, after asking for the prescription for his patients, purchased them for his own personal use. His patients apparently never knew their names were being used and that the doctor was obtaining demerol and morphine sulphate all over the county, and in the Princeton area in particular.

Sgt. Wittcoff said that members of the eight-man State Police narcotics squad make periodic checks of all New Jersey drug stores to ascertain if any persons are purchasing unusual amounts of narcotics. Dr. Howland was buying demerol and morphine sulphate "habitually," the detective said, and finally became suspect last month.

Dr. Howland, a graduate of Johns Hopkins Medical School, is married and has three children. He has been serving as the borough police surgeon for more than three years. He is being represented by Gordon Griffin, who also serves as the Township's attorney.

Sgt. Wittcoff pointed out that the state penalty for a first-offense conviction on the charge of untawful obtaining of a narcotic drug is no less than two years in prison and no more than 15 years, plus a fine up to $2,000. The police sergeant added that in many cases, especially involving skilled or professional people of good educational background, prison sentences are suspended and the defendants are permitted to continue their careers. Customarily, some form of controlled medical treatment is prescribed by the judge as a safeguard to those in trouble.

TOPICS OF THE TOWN

"Dark Cloud in Clear View." The prospect of approval for Clearview Associates' financial reorganization plan for the Princeton Shopping Center dimmed perceptibly at Monday's hearing before Federal Judge Phillip Forman.

Expected to produce three things: a financial statement from Theordore R. Potts, developer of the center; written committments on $340,000 loaned new capital, and a $25,000 "good faith" deposit, Max L. Rosenstein, Mr. Potts' lawyer, asked for an adjournment until this Thursday morning.

While he raised the legitimate point that clearance from the first mortgagee (Travelers Insurance, with over $1,200,00 holdings) is completely necessary to the whole reorganization, Mr. Rosenstein had a rather starling fact to reveal.

He reported that the two "close sources", "friends", who will lend Mr. Potts the third of a million dollars have asked a second mortgage. In other words, the second mortgage held by Property Credit Corporation is to be bought and assigned to the two unnamed figures, as security.

It was charged by lawyers that this materially affects the rights of general creditors; and that the sum involved is no longer a personal loan to Mr. Potts. But the most cogent point was that insisted on by Judge Forman, who wondered how the Shopping Center, which has been unable to gather rents equal to its monthly indebtedness, including $10,800 payments on the second mortgage, would handle such charges, even if transferred to "friendly" hands. Mr. Rosenstein implied that under the circumstances, on adjustment in the second morgage terms might be expected.

Under the original reorganization plan, the second mortgage would have been liquidated entirely. The general creditors would have received a dividend of between 18 and 20% on their claims, plus a possible additional 15% under a Class C stock deal.

The crucial point of how substituting one mortgage for another would help remains to be answered by Mr. Potts. With a none-too-pleasant tone, Atwood C. Wolf, attorney for Property Credit, suggested that it might be helpful to have PCC out of the way as second mortgage.

After all the talk, Judge Forman said quite clearly that the revision of proposal was a "material change" and that it "brings into serious doubt the feasibility of the (reorganization) plan."

Thursday's hearing may be all-important, but Judge Forman allowed himself a few remarks on the involuntary bankruptcy action "lurking in the background," the foreclosure motion by Property Credit "in the offing," both dependent on the current action. As he said, there are "dark clouds in clear view," "a hurricane," a 'Peer Gynt' "coming up."

Industrialization Ahoy! Confirmation of the establishhment of another large research laboratory in the Princeton area, first reported in Town Topics a week ago, came this week from officials of Food Machinery & Chemical Corp., the New York City-based firm planning the laboratory. Coupled with news that three more big companies contemplate New Jersey facilities, the confirmation gave Princetonians further indication of pending industrialization around them, not to mention the resultant pressures of such expansion.

While Food Machinery's officials said they preferred not to release full information on their project here until details of cooperative work have been completed with Princeton University scientists, they did say they expected to disclose full plans for the laboratory in about two weeks. The statement was enough

Ellis Fund Tops $5,000

A number of organizations in town were among those contributing this week to the Ellis Fund, started more than a month ago as a tribute to the Princeton Township patrolman who gave his life in an effort to rescue two boys in the flood-swollen Millstone River.

Another $447 was received, raising the total to $5,121.78. Hundreds of residents of the Princeton community are represented by the contributions received since the fund was started, with all gifts deposited in The First National Bank.

Checks should be made payable to The Billie D. Ellis Fund and sent to Town Topics, P. O. Box 664. Donations may also be left at its 4 Mercer Street office or at Hinkson's, 74 Nassau Street.

It's New to Us

Coutouriere Sewing. If you have a cherished old brocade that you've never dared to cut, or a length of hand-loomed wool that deserves the best, we suggest that you take fabric and pattern to Mary Gonzales, Princeton 1-5015, a dressmaker who belongs with the coutourieres.

Mrs. Gonzales (who acts, too, you know), is a precise, speedy, meticulous seamstress with a special yen for unusual fabrics. But if you don't have the heirloom brocade or the irreplaceable tweed she will make you a dress of Dan River cotton so don't be diffident about going to her with a simple autumn jumper.

We saw on Mrs. Gonzales' racks a sub-teen dress, carefully fitted to allow for future expansion. Its bodice tucks were straight and even to the last millimeter, and its inside finishing touches—those important seams that don't show outside—were as fine and carefully done as the tucks. Another dress in paid cotton had an intricate band down the front with the plaid runing at a perfect diagonal to the body of the dress.

Mrs. Gonzales makes flannel nightgowns for children, suggesting a broad red and white stripe, or perhaps a floral. She will make you two for your daughter for $9. For a simple one-piece dress, the price is $10 — higher for matching plaids, or working over an intricate pattern. She will finish a dress in less than a week, fittings and all.

When you have a dress made for an active young girl, given to tree-climbing and being chased by active young boys, Mrs. Gonzales stitches all seams twice—just to make sure.

Tweed, With a Brogue. Magnificent Irish tweeds in smoky blues or russet, styled for today by Vera Maxwell, but simple enough to be classics—these are the fall suit offerings at Rosette Pennington, Princeton Shopping Center.

One that we liked particularly has been designed with a full flaring skirt—a startling novelty in this day of pencil silhouettes. It is bright russet tweed with a short fitted jacket and a round collar, and it comes in blue as well. The same blue is used in a suit whose skirt has a gentler flare. The jacket of this one is cut along with a Tuxedo collar. A grey herringbone has the classic straight skirt, cut steel buttons down the front and a red velvet lining to the collar.

Fare Well

Anyone interested in saving $600 or so—and this categorizes practically everybody we know—will be interested in the Kuller Travel Company's new air travel plan. (See them at 82 Nassau.)

If you are planning a trip by air anywhere abroad, the head of your family (and let's not argue about who that is) buys a round-trip or one-way ticket for First Class or Tourist flight. Then the spouse and all children under the age of 25 may buy the same accommodations at $130 to $300 less per ticket, depending on the class.

For Paris, for example, Family Head pays $518 round trip, dependents pay $218 each, a saving of $200 per ticket. The more children you have the more money you save. You may travel on any major overseas airline, but you must make your trip between November 1 and March 31.

Think of the travel wardrobe you can buy with all that money you're saving!

Kimberly knit dresses, for those who can wear them, are new and distinctive. They are two-piece dresses, most of them with ribbed skirts and short or three-quarter raglan sleeves.

Navy, moss green, aqua, beige, black taupe—the colors range wide. Try one with nipped in blouse, elbow-length raglans and a diamond rib pattern on the skirt. Sizes are 10-18, prices $45 and $50.

Designer dresses, a specialty of Rosette Pennington, are special indeed. You'll look twice at the light weight grey tweed with long torso (belt), black faille bow at the round collar, and bands of black and white soutache at cuff and collar edge.

Oleg Cassini produces a brown and black (red and black) knit sheath with heavy black knit ribbing at the neckline, finished off with a black satin bow. The knit look appears on many Cassini dresses.

Harvey Berin presents a simple navy jersey with lowered waistline and navy satin collar that matches the front band and its buttons. Vera Maxwell has a grey or brown jersey with tie silk scarf, a princess dress with patch to reveal that negotiations for property for the research center, along U.S. 1 at Plainsboro Road, have been completed with Walker-Gordon, which owned the land.

The spokesmen for Food Machinery said the corporation, with many branches throughout the country, is divided into two divisions, one devoted to production of heavy chemicals and the other to production of a wide variety of food machines. The new Princeton laboratory, which reportedly will employ 200 researchers after future development, will be concerned exclusively with experimental work for the chemical division, they said.

Other New Jersey industrialization noted this week included three large-scale reports: (1) Construction by the RCA Tube Division of a $3,000,000 plant in Bridgewater Township, near Somerville, will begin this fall. (2) Henry Ford II will be honored at a dinner next week because the Ford Motor Co.'s confidence in the state has been culminated in construction of a 1,900,000-squorefoot assembly plant at Mahwah. (3) The Chrysler Corp., launching a huge 10-year expansion program, will construct an assembly plant on the east coast, most likely at a preferred site in southern New Jersey.

Chest Heads Named

Chester R. Stroop, principal of the Nassau Street Elementary School, has accepted the post of chairman of the schools division of the Community Chest, while Ledlie I. Laughlin, former associate director of admissions at Princeton University, will head the special gifts division.

Lawrence E. Benson, campaign chairman, has reported that the Chest organization is now fully under way, and that the showing of business firms in listing personnel is particularly encouraging. According to John P. Poe, assistant chairman, approximately 3,000 employees have been listed at their place of business, nearly three times the total in previous years.

Township Zoning Status. With industrial developments such as the above as a background, the Township Planning Board is now in the process of reviewing and reworking the far-reaching new zoning ordinance for the mushrooming municipality.

The document has been returned to consultant Charles K. Agle for two important tasks: clarification of as many as a dozen provisions which are unclear in the form presented to the public, and listing of points for consideration, those on which difference of opinion exists.

As now scheduled, Mr. Agle's work will be presented to the board at the executive session following its regular October 3 meeting. The next public hearing, with a third likely to follow, will be held sometime after this date, but as of this week, the exact timing has not been determined.

Meanwhile, TOWN TOPICS has gathered assorted expressions of opinion on the proposed ordinance, which sets a high standard for future growth of the Township, an area which is 85% undeveloped in the midst of surging industrial and population pressures.

Some persons have expressed approval of the ordinance in its entirety, others have challenged specific provisions, and still other groups have charged that the proposed zoning is "undemocratic", and threatens "strangulation" of the Princeton community. The latter opinions have emphasized the need for small lots on which young homemakers can build, and have suggested that the ordinance be put to a vote of the township, or that the Planning Board be unseated as not representative of the community.

Weather Man Proved All Wet. While the United States Weather Bureau was issuing storm warnings throughout the area and Princeton residents were battening down for a big blow when hurricane Ione swept through, a Princeton University professor stepped forward to announce that he didn't think it would be bad at all. Much to the weather bureau's embarassment, he was right.

Dr. John Q. Stewart, Associate Professor of Astronmical Physics, made his public statement that "Ione wil blow itself out before reaching here" late Monday evening because he was "completely annoyed" at the way the bureau's warnings "aroused the public too

McCARTER STAR AND DIRECTOR: Patricia Neal, starring actress, and Guthrie McClintic, director and co-producer, confer while rehearsing the new comedy "A Roomful of Roses," which will have its world premiere this Friday evening at the McCarter. Performances are also scheduled for Saturday afternoon and evening.

News of the Theatres

"Roses" Premiere Friday. The local theatrical season gets under way this Friday evening with the world premiere of "A Roomful of Roses." The new comedy by Edith Sommer will be performed also on Saturday afternoon and evening.

There are excellent prospects for standing room only for the two evening performances, but there are still choice seats at lower cost for the matinee.

An October 17 opening in New York has been announced for the show and the only other city to see it in advance will be Washington. The production is under the charge of two of the theatre world's top-flight "names," Guthrie McClintic and Stanley Gilkey.

Mr. Guthrie is also directing a cast headed by Patricia Neal, young stage and film star; Russ Conway, young Betty Lou Keim, Alice Frost, Warren Berlinger and David White. Scenery is by Donald Oenslager.

Miss Neal has cancelled all film engagements for a year and closed her home in Buckinghamshire, England, to take the role of an appealing woman who impulsively commits a single indiscretion and finds herself involved in front-page scandal.

Next Attraction. A last-minute change caused plans to present "The Medium" the following weekend to be cancelled, so that the next attraction at the McCarter will be "Deadfall," a new "spine-tingler whoduit" by Leonard Lee. It will be here October 7 and 8.

The melodrama will play three performances here, Friday evening and Saturday afternoon and evening. Mail orders are being accepted now and tickets may also be purchased this weekend at performances of "A Roomful of Roses."

Martin Goodman is producing and direction is by Michael Gordon. Heading the cast are Joanne Dru, particularly noted for her film work in recent years, and John Ireland. Sheila Bond is also featured, and the cast includes Clarence Derment, president of Actors Equity, Jay Jostyn and Harold Vermilyea.

COMMUNITY PLAYERS

Professor Alan S. Downer of the Princeton Department of English is scheduled to speak briefly about the Community Players' first offering of the new season at an open meeting of the group this Thursday night (8:30 p.m., 59 Bayard Lane.)

The Players will present "Roadside" by Lynn Riggs, under Mr. Downer's direction. Final plans are still to be made, but it is expected that the production will be in late October and will coin-

UNIVERSITY CONCERTS

The opening of the Princeton University Concerts series for the 1955-56 season is only three and a half weeks away. Pietro Scarpini, the brilliant Italian pianist who made his American debut with the New York Philharmonic last November, will launch Series One on October 11 in McCarter Theatre.

The University Concerts are divided into two series, bringing the Princeton community outstanding music performed by the best available artists and musical organizations. Operating with the cooperation of the University and under subsidy from two memorial funds (Philena Fobes Fine and Jessie Peabody Frothingham), the concerts are brought here at considerably less than cost.

Following Mr. Scarpini in Series One this year will be Leontyne Price, soprano; the Cleveland Orchestra conducted by George Szell, and the Mozarteum Orchestra from Salzburg.

Series Two will consist of performances by the American Chamber Orchestra, the Budapest String Quartet on two occasions, the Juilliard String Quartet and New York Pro Musica Antiqua. Full details of the dates are listed in the advertisement on page 5.

Tickets are set aside in each series for subscription sales, making the entire series available at lower cost. In recent years, subscriptions tickets for Series One have nearly sold out and early orders are recommended.

Single tickets go on sale a week before each concert at the Princeton University Store. All concerts are given in McCarter Theatre, starting at 8:30 p.m. Information concerning tickets and programs may be obtained by writing Mrs. MacKenty Bryan, 2-A North Middle Reunion Hall, Princeton University. Mrs. Bryan's telephone is 0153 between 2 and 4:30 p.m., weekdays.

Professor Elliot Forbes of the University's department of music has succeeded Professor Edward Hubler as chairman of the concerts committee, the non-profit group which plans and runs the series each year.

Members of the committee are: Mrs. James Barnes, Mrs. Harold W. Dodds, Mrs. McClintock Ellis, Mrs. Samuel Lambert, Mrs. Bradford B. Locke, Mrs. Walter Lowrie, Mrs. C. McKim Norton, Mrs. Charles G. Osgood, Mrs. Roy Dickinson Welch, Mrs. Ernest G. Weyer, Mrs. Wilbur M. Young, Edward T. Cone, Ernest T. DeWald, Mr. Hubler, Carroll C. Pratt, David Shoup and Mr. Forbes.

Roland Hayes' Daughter Here. Afrika Franzada Hayes, a musically inclined 21-year-old who has developed a promising soprano voice and has played the piano for 16 years, returned to Princeton this week to start her senior year at Westminster Choir College. She came back with the announcement that she will not follow in the footsteps of her famous father, singer Roland Hayes.

Afrika said her true love is choirs (she belongs to two of four at Westminster) and, after completion of her studies at the local college, she intends to do choir work with high school and college groups and direct a church choir on week ends.

Mr. Hayes, far from disappointed by his daughter's decision to go her own way, observed that she is the "continuation of his desires."

IN COMEDY: Paul Hartman will be seen at New Hope in "Time Out for Ginger," starting Monday.

cide with a special seminar of drama criticism now being planned by Princeton University.

The meeting Thursday is designed to attract all persons interested in the various aspects of community theatre, ranging from acting and directing to stage work, costuming, make-up and other activities. Several membership plans are offered by the Players and Mrs. Robert W. Wood Jr. (tel. 3841-J) is membership chairman.

Theatrical Help Wanted

The Princeton Community Players hold a meeting tonight, Thursday, seeking additional membership for the coming season, (see News of the Theatres) and the Junior Community Players have announced that there may be a delay in starting operations next week because of staff vacancies.

Anyone interested in children's theatre who can spare one afternoon a week to supervise a group of youngsters in dramatics is asked to contact Mrs. Blackwell Smith, tel. 0898-M.

The Junior Players comprises five groups ranging from first to eighth grade. Formed in the late 1940's, the organization each year brings several hundred young members into contact with the theatre.

BUCKS COUNTY PLAYHOUSE

"The Wayward Kiss" is rounding out a week at the Bucks County Playhouse in New Hope, and the attraction will be followed by another comedy, "Time Out for Ginger," which begins a week's run Monday evening.

To highlight the show, which is now considered a standard of American country theatre, Producer Michael Ellis has signed Paul Hartman and Sloan Simpson, who will play the father and mother of a trio of adolescent girls, one of them insistent on gaining a position on the high school football team.

Mr. Hartman will be making one of his rare appearances in a show without any music, since he is best known as one of the country's leading dance satirists. His role in the Ronald Alexander family comedy is one calling for character, humor and warmth.

early and perhaps too much." Said he, "I wanted to build a fire under the weather bureau."

Professor Stewart followed the progress of the storm by means of the barometer readings and other "old-fashioned" information given on regular radio news broadcasts. Through use of this information, he was able to plot the path of the hurricane and see that it would blow itself out long before hitting New Jersey.

Dr. Stewart, who has been studying hurricanes since September 21, 1938, when he was caught without warning in the disastrous storm in New England, believes that the reason for the weather bureau's inaccuracy lies in the fact that the bureau "has no men north of Cape Hatteras who understand hurricanes." The behavior of the storms is much different here than over the Gulf, he explained.

Pointing to his successful predictions made from radio reports of barometer readings and wind velocity, Professor Stewart also criticized the weather bureau's heavy dependence upon radar and airplanes in storm forecasting, a method he labels "very vague and hazardous." He has much more faith in the "tried and trusted, old-fashioned" instruments, such as the barometer and wind direction indicator. This week's prognostication battle showed him to be clearly the winner.

Planned Parenthood Plans. Having withdrawn from the Community Chest just three weeks ago, officials of Planned Parenthood took steps this week to conduct a campaign on their own—their first solo drive since the organization joined the Chest in 1938. The Planned Parenthood campaign will get under way about October 1, some two to three weeks in advance of the Community Chest's 1955 drive.

Mrs. William H. Sword, president of Planned Parenthood, said

a meeting of the organization's directors was held Tuesday to select a campaign committee. Mrs. Richard V. Lindabury, Mrs. Walter Roberts, Mrs. Norman Williams Jr. and Mrs. Oscar Sussman were chosen, and several additional members will be named next week. Mrs. Thomas Cook, an ex-officio member with Mrs. Sword, was picked to handle campaign publicity.

Operation Brotherhood. Far-sighted leaders of the Princeton Junior Chamber of Commerce, realizing that a climactic battle in the "cold war" over Southeast Asia is about to be fought and feeling that influential Americans must understand the situation in order to take a stand, this week instigated the "Princeton Plan" for publicizing Operation Brotherhood.

Operation Brotherhood, already endorsed wholeheartedly by President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles, is a joint effort by the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce and the International Rescue Committee to provide relief for the refugees in Free Vietnam and, at the same time, to demonstrate America's position in the struggle for freedom there.

The "Princeton Plan," a dream-child of Leonard F. Newton, president of the Jaycees, and Dana B. Copp, a director of the organization, is designed to inform the "thought leaders" across the nation of the purpose and importance of Operation Brotherhood. Its originators hope the plan will pave the way for a national fund-raising climax, after they have stressed the fact that the people in Vietnam, under terms of the Geneva settlement, soon will choose between the Communist regime of most of Asia or the democratic government in Saigon.

The Princeton Jaycees launched their attack Wednesday night by sending a large number of telegrams to national public opinion leaders in the fields of industry, labor, religion and medicine and editors of mass media. Co-signed by Admiral Richard E. Byrd and Harry A. Bullis, chairman of the board of General Mills, the wires quoted President Eisenhower on the significance of Operation Brotherhood and requested telephone appointments for Saturday morning.

From 8 to 10 a.m. Saturday, Princeton Jaycees and state and national Jaycee officers will undergo a brief training session at Bell Telephone headquarters in Trenton, use of which has been obtained by Elmer Dietz, Bell manager here. Then, from 10 until all calls have been completed, the Jaycees will keep their message-loaded appointments with the country's "thought leaders."

Rescue Squad Being Formed. Princeton's volunteer First Aid Unit is in the process of forming a rescue squad which will supplement its present life-saving activities.

A committee of William Rodweller, chairman, Raymond Rodweller and Carl Bohn is surveying rescue squads in neighboring areas to determine essential needs and functions of a unit.

Formation of the squad will require additional equipment such as a rescue boat, motors, jacks, and other devices. A jeep or other form of transportation for the boat will probably be required.

The need for the squad was dramatized for the community by the recent triple drowning in the flood-swollen Millstone River, although its formation has been considered for some time. The rescue squad will be financed by funds raised by the First Aid Unit, which is currently conducting its annual campaign for financial support from the community it serves.

"Meet Your Teacher." Featuring a novel back-to-school program, the Princeton Township PTA will hold its annual "Meet Your Teacher" night at 8 o'clock Tuesday at Valley Road School. Parents will have an opportunity to meet Township teachers and go to classes just as their children do.

Ralph Wilt, principal of Valley Road School, and William Mollenkopf, chairman of the PTA program committee, are in charge of arrangements for the night and Princeton at Atlantic City. Princeton was represented in the parade that was a feature of the Miss America Beauty Contest in Atlantic City. Each of the contestants, and others in the parade, were provided transportation in a Plymouth convertible.

The car that lead the rest was furnished by Frank A. Shelton, President of the Shelton Motor Company, DeSoto-Plymouth dealer in Princeton. Because of another appointment, Mr. Shelton could not be present for the occasion, and reports that he regretfully missed the company of Miss Jeanette Davis of the Arthur Godfrey show, who rode in his car.

Fashion Show Set. A fashion show at the Princeton Inn Wednesday at 1 o'clock will raise funds for the Miss Fine's School Alumni Association.

Fall styles in women's wear will be provided by Rosette Pennington, Princeton Shopping Center and New York. Models who will be featured include Mrs. John Gulick, Mrs. Edward C. Rose, Mrs. C. Burrage Armour, Mrs. Charles R. Erdman 3d, Mrs. Henry Tomlinson and Mrs. David Frothingham.

PHS Council Named

Under the supervision of faculty advisers Richard Borger and Miss Jeanne M. Wright, new student officers at Princeton High School this week began their year-long tours of democratic duty. They were headed by Arnold Alden, president of the Student Council.

Other council officers handling their governing chores for the first time were Howard Calkin, vice-president; Beverly Taylor treasurer; Barbara Dilley, recording secretary, and John Johnson, corresponding secretary. Leading their respective classes in presidential posts were Thomas Shope, 12th grade; Walter Chartier, 11th grade, and James Chamberlin, 10th grade.

Back on the Shelves. After an absence of more than a year from Princeton stores, Mrs. Dorf's rolls are back on the market. Undoubtedly the community's best known home-made delicacy in the bread line, they are the product of Mrs. Erling Dorf of 283 Mercer Road.

Stores selling them include Bovino's, Davidson's, the Food Mart, Hill's, the Royal Scarlet and Schafer's. While Mrs. Dorf provides each of these outlets with a sufficient quantity to meet normal demand, she suggests that housewives planning on sizeable orders make arrangements through her direct.

Her weekly output averages around 200 dozen. On a big football weekend or for Thanksgiving and Christmas, however, she may hake double that number (nearly 5,000 rolls.)

Girl Scouts Organize. The Princeton Girl Scout Council has issued an invitation to all newcomers of Girl Scout age and all residents of Brownie age to register at the Scout office, 202 Nassau Street, Fridays from 9 to 12 a. m. If these hours are not convenient, appointments can be arranged by calling 1285, the council stated.

The Princeton area is in need of volunteer helpers in the Girl Scout program. Council officers have asked all interested women to contact headquarters at the same hours.

Mrs. Justus Vollbrecht, chairman of the Camp Committee, has reported that 31 girls from this area attended established Girl Scout camps during the past summer. Two senior scouts served as counselors-in-training while Mrs. Evan Thomsen, chairman of training in this council, serves as a unit leader in summer training program for senior scouts.

The Girl Scouts are a member agency of the Community Chest. They will again collect toys for the Y.W.C.A. to repair for Christ-

G. WASHINGTON NEVER HAD IT SO BAD: The "small town" of Princeton is getting closer and closer to a realistic struggle with the problems of the motor vehicle. At last estimate there were 12,200 cars registered locally, and there are many more vehicles today. All this, by the way, for a road system which has not seen the addition of a principal street since 1777. And about all Sgt. Randolph B. Applegate (above) needs as he whistles along traffic at 5 p.m. at Palmer Square is a few horses from the Revolutionary Army. He has cars from all directions, bicyclists, pedestrians and just plain problems as he tries to keep overloaded Nassau Street moving and at the same time let in cars from the University and Palmer Square. On the right is the familiar pile-up at the Washington Road stoplight. The car beyond the most distant truck can count on waiting for at least three "red lights" before it joins the Nassau Street throng. And let's not mention parking! (Richards Photos)

144th Year for Seminary. A weekend-long orientation program for 130 new juniors, arranged by upper classmen, will launch the 144th academic year for Princeton Theological Seminary. The orientation schedule, including a tour of the town and a luncheon meeting with Princeton clergymen, will wind up with a service of worship Sunday evening.

Dr. John A. Mackay, president of the seminary, will officially open the year's scholastic activities with an address at 7:45 p. m. Tuesday in Miller Chapel. Registration will take place on Monday and Tuesday and classes will begin Wednesday morning.

Choir College Crowded. With the start of another academic year this week, Westminster Choir College reported an enrollment of 300-plus, a jump of more than 40 over last year's total and a big move toward the all-time peak of 408 students that was attained during World War II. The school's steady growth underscored a mounting need for its new, 125-student dormitory, for which ground-breaking ceremonies will be scheduled in about two weeks.

According to a brief announcement a month ago, the new choir college residence hall will be constructed with the aid of a $50,000 gift from a donor identified only as "one of America's largest industrial foundations." It is still the hope of the school's administration that the building on the west end of the campus will be ready for use by the start of this year's second semester.

As the college opened, Dr. John Finney Williamson, president, reported the addition of three new faculty members. Miss Frances Clark, originator of the Piano Workshop in America, will head the piano department; Miss Louise Goss, also a distinguished pianist, will assist Miss Clark; and Mrs. George Yarick will assist in the voice department.

Y.W.C.A. Open House Planned. The Princeton Y.W.C.A. will hold open house all next week for all residents of this area interested in the Y's program. The leaders of the Y's clubs, sports activities, trips and social activities will be on hand to meet visitors and explain the group's program.

English classes for new Americans will be featured in the program this year along with a Tuesday morning class for homemakers and a nursery for pre-school children. Miss Esther Todd, executive director of the Y, will assist the leaders at tea each afternoon, while the club members will serve as hostesses in the evening.

The Y.W.C.A. will sponsor a number of hobby groups and clubs to begin October 3 and continue for a year. The hobby groups will include classes in swimming, painting and sketching, arts and crafts, ballet, a story hour, sewing, water color and oil painting, sailing and canoeing.

Leaders for the hobby groups will be Mrs. Heath Licklider, Mrs. Victor Olgyay, Mrs. Peter Gardner, Miss Constance Bonotte, Mrs. Arthur Komar, Mrs. Van Garvey, Mrs. Frederick Fergueson, Mrs. Charles A. Williams, Mrs. Rex Coreleigh, Mrs. James Williams and Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Sikes.

Mrs. B. F. Houston will advise a co-ed toy workshop.

Mrs. Braxton Ellerbe, Miss Elizabeth Wilson, Miss Frances Allison, Miss Jessie Surrell and Mrs. Bruce Reinhart will serve as leeders for the Y-Teen clubs, open to girls in grades 6 through 10. The staff of the Y will also conduct a leedership course and a "Coke Date" group, while Dr. Norman Fredrickson will hold a co-ed "Question Box."

The Green Street Y.W.C.A. Center will be open from 1 to 5 p.m. each day to enroll members in the Y and the Y's activities. Further information may be obtained by calling 2133-W.

Monday Club ta Meet. Princeton's Monday Club, with e membership of 30 men and women, will hold its first meeting of the fall at 3 p.m. October 3 in the Scout Room of the First Presbyterian Church. Those interested in joining the organization have been asked to attend any Monday meeting, or call Mrs. Paul A. Furrer at 1-3295 or Mrs. Luther Eisenhart at 1-0157.

The Monday Club will meet each week for several hours to work on various club projects and give members an opportunity to make new friends and exchange ideas. This year, members will be particularly concerned with repairing toys for sale at benefits and charity bazaars. Tea will be served every Monday.

Dog Training Club Classes. The beginners' course of the Princeton Dog Training Club will start on Monday at 8 p.m., while intermediate and advanced classes are scheduled to start the following Monday, October 2.

Information on the club's courses may be obtained by calling 5876 or 1172-M. Courses are given in the gymnasium of Miss Fine's School. The first beginners' class on Monday will be for demonstration only, and owners are asked to leave their dogs at home.

Riding Club Revamps. The Princeton Riding Club at 248 Bayard Lane has remodelled its premises and added a new string of horses in preparation for increased local interest in horse back riding.

Beginning and advanced riding classes are scheduled to start on September 25 and October 1. Miss Carol Worden, Texas show rider, has joined Miss Carol Davis on the teaching staff. A monthly gymkhana is part of the extensive program for the year ahead.

Richard Huber is conducting a course in stick-and-ball polo. Princeton University and Mrs. Chapin's School have added horseback riding to their gym programs and the University's ROTC mounted drill team will again make use of the club facilities.

Indigestible Item

The "dinner caucus" method of conducting business, a practice of the mayor and council, is the No. 1 abuse of the present Borough government, Democratic candidates for borough office charge. These monthly meal sessions, usually held the night before the public meeting, are not open to the press or public and normally last longer than the public meetings.

"The public meeting is merely a fast playback of the deliberations and decisions arrived at the night before at the caucus meeting," according to Raymond F. Male, the Democrats' choice for mayor. "The public does not have the benefit of the kind of open discussions that encourage public participation."

Mr. Male and his running mates agree that some preliminary work on problems and ordanances often is necessary, but they feel the caucus method is not the answer. Their solution: "effective council committees" for preliminary work of a technical nature and "the executive session, which should be used only in a limited way."

Women Voters to Entertain. The Princeton League of Women Voters will again hold its annual fall teas to give members and prospective members an opportunity to meet and discuss plans for the current year. Mrs. Jacob Viner will speak informally at the teas on the League's achievements during the 35 years of its existence.

The affairs will be held Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Harold Cherniss, 98 Battle Road, at 3:15 and Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Stanley Smoyer, 86 Olden Lane, at 8:15 p.m. All who are interested in the work of the league are invited to attend.

Canteen to Open. The first Princeton High School Canteen Dance of the fall season will be held on Bamberger's roof Saturday from 8:30 to 11:30, the Canteen Council has announced. Tommy Everett's seven-piece orchestra will play for the affair with intermission entertainment furnished by high school talent.

Membership cards for the 1955-56 season will be on sale at the high school and at the opening dance. Good for the entire school year, the membership card costs 75 cents. An additional 25 cents will be charged this year for all dances featuring bands, while non-band dances will cost 10 cents.

Pitchfork Killer Caught. Charged with the brutal pitchfork murder of his employer's son on a farm near Princeton, 40-year-old Rubin Evans this week faced grand jury action and probable trial before a high court in the immediate future. The elusive Evans, who allegedly stabbed Saul Yuran, 43, on the Route 27 farm, between Kingston and Monmouth Junction, during a heated Labor Day argument, was not captured for eight days.

Jersey City police, working on a tip from New Brunswick detectives, apprehended Evans in a Jersey City phone booth as he was calling a New Brunswick tavern in search of his brother and much-needed money. The Jersey City officers transferred their prisoner to State Police of the Princeton station, who had instituted a 13-state search following the crime.

Since his arrest, Evans has been held in Middlesex County jail, along with James Wakefield, another farmhand who witnessed the pitchfork killing and reportedly threatened to hit the victim's father with a pickaxe if he summoned the State Police. Evans appeared before South Brunswick Township Judge Adele Watson on Monday for part of his preliminary hearing and was scheduled to complete the session after the judge studied an autopsy report.

HOW TO READ THE "AMAZING BARGAIN" ADS.

Amazing Bargain! shrieked the headline of the full page advertisment.

"SAVE $117 ON BRAND NEW ————ALL IN ORIGINAL FACTORY CRATES. REGULARLY $344.95 YOU PAY ONLY $228." It was amazing but, alas, no bargain.

For the brand new ———— were actually discontinued 1954 models, lacking at least a dozen improvements introduced with the 1955 line. And $344.95 had never been the advertiser's regular price; it was only the manufacturer's "suggested" retail price.

Even in 1954 this dealer and many others, had sold them for substantially less. Some had added a further reduction by offering large trade-in allowances.

Actually, the $228 now asked for these warehouse-weary machines was higher than the price they had brought at other dealer's closeout sales, months before.

Despite its misrepresentations, this ad sold scores of over priced, out modeled ————. Everybody loves a bargain.

There's nothing wrong with such ads—so long as their comparisons are honest and factual.

Unfortunately, simple honesty has been vanishing from comparative price advertising. Such abuses are not limited, as they once were, to a few fly-by-night highbinders.

Many well-known and long established stores are adopting price-comparison practices they once would have scorned.

Sports in Princeton

Rutgers Looking for Victory. Extremely optimistic about the possibility of scoring its first victory over Princeton since 1948, Rutgers' football team will come to Palmer Stadium this Saturday to open the Tigers' 1955 season. Game time is 2 o'clock, with a crowd of 22,000 expected to view the renewal of the series that launched intercollegiate football in 1869.

Coach Harvey Harman of the Scarlet is justifiably pleased with the picture before him. His 1954 outfit came fast at the end of the season, winning three of its last four after a dismal start that had seen it drop five in a row. Even better than the holdover strength, however, is the big crop of sophomores who were unheaten a year ago, one of their triumphs including a 26-0 rout of the Princeton freshmen.

The outcome of the 47th game between the two New Jersey institutions will hinge largely on how quickly the Rutgers sophomores have developed during preseason practice, and how well they stand up under fire in the Stadium. In other years, inexperience and game-pressure induced by the extreme desire to trim the Tigers have produced costly errors.

To win, Princeton will have to play markedly better football then it has produced in scoring its last triumphs over the New Brunswick entry. In 1953, it was a 9-7 final, and last year the slim margin was identical as the home forces prevailed, 10-8.

It was, incidentally, only through a Rutgers penalty last September that Princeton won. A personal foul chargeable to the visitors gave the Tigers a first down after they had stalled out and punted, and they went on from there to kick the field goal that meant the difference between an 8-7 loss and a 10-8 victory.

Rutgers is without spring practice this year for the first time in many seasons, having followed the Ivy League ban in order to conform to its standards and meet as many teams in the circuit as it can. That will clearly work in Princeton's favor: the difference between Syracuse, which had practiced last spring and scrimmaged here last Saturday, and the Tigers was extreme.

The Orange had the better of the going, scoring six times to Princeton's two and uncovering glaring defensive weaknesses in the home team's play. Only Royce Flippin left action in the first few minutes with a wrenched knee, Princeton's inability to sustain an attack without him was also painfully apparent.

Cause for gloom was lessened by the fact that end Joe Grotto and tackle Mike Bowman were also out of action, as were several reserve players. The Tigers should benefit from the rugged engagement, and will not by any means find Rutgers' T-formation offense as polished as that Syracuse displayed.

Probable Starters. Princeton's starting lineup for the game Saturday is unlikely to be determined more than 24 hours ahead of time. A series of minor injuries sustained at Blairstown has kept some key players from seeing as much action as desirable, and the situation in the line particularly is uncertain.

The likelihood is, however, that Mike Stewart and Joe Grotto will be the ends Charlie Caldwell chooses. The latter is a senior, both are lettermen and both are good two-way players. They stand 6 feet, 2 inches.

Mike Bowman (212 pounds), who missed the Syracuse scrimmage with a leg bruise, will go at left tackle, with Earle Harder (195) the choice at right tackle. Both are juniors, both won letters a year ago.

Bob Aldrich (205), converted last week from a tackle, is the likely bet at left guard. The right guard could be Dave Grubb, 185-lb. sophomore, or one of two seniors, George Peck (200) or Wendell Inhoffer (205), at center, 195-lb. John Thompson has the starting assignment after holding down a reserve role for the past two seasons.

Either senior Frank Cosentino or sophomore John Sapoch will run the team from the quarterback position. The latter at 205 weighs 20 pounds more than Cosentino and is a good blocking back. Whether or not he starts, he'll see a lot of action.

Senior Bill Agnew is the choice at wingback, senior Dick Martin will run from the fullback position, with Flippin rounding out the ball-carrying quartet. All-East as a junior and credited with ten touchdowns in the six games he could play, Flip is set for a great year. It is a certainty that his presence throughout the season is essential to a mark of better than .500 for the Tigers.

LITTLE TIGERS' ONE-TWO PUNCH: With their 1955 campaign opener on tap this Saturday, Princeton High School's football coach, Joe Jingoli, and captain, Frank Di Meglio, get their heads together to discuss team spirit and problems. One of the most important of the latter is Di Meglio's physical condition following a severe shoulder injury last week. He was forced to miss a scrimmage session with Freehold, but is expected to play most of the game this week when the Little Tigers challenge Leonardo High School on the opposition's gridiron. A year ago, in their first contest, the locals trimmed Leonardo, 26-7. (Alan Richards Photo)

These players are also likely to be called on in a reserve capacity: ends Ben Spinelli, Joe DiRenzo and Bob Kent; tackles Rusty Melges, Dick Moore, Bob Casciola and Steve Ball (the latter two both 210-lb. sophomores); guards Charlie Sharp, Don Mayer and Art Benis; centers John Hunt and Paul Nystrom; backs Bill Danforth, Jack Kraus, Sid Pinch, Hewes Agnew and Sargent Kraus.

Visitor's Backfield Strong. Rutgers' lineup, too, is uncertain, with the probability that the Scarlet will start only one player (end Don Felber) in the same position as last year. These backs figure to fit prominently in the visitors' attack:

Quarterback Bill Whitacre, Bill Gatyas and Toshimasa Hosoda, the latter a Japanese-American; halfbacks Bob Lusardi, Bob Kelley, Greg Holmes; fullbacks John Laverty, Bob Bear and Dick Garretson.

Coach Harman, who has been inclined to take the dark view of things for the past few seasons, is well satisfied with his 1955 prospects. He looks for "the biggest and most promising team" to represent Rutgers since 1949.

The Scarlet last took the Tigers in '48, winning 22 to 6 for the largest margin of the four victories they have scored in the long series. Princeton has won 42 times, and there has never been a tie.

Things to Watch For. The all-around play of Mike Stewart, whose family has moved to Princeton from Morrisville, Pa. The rangy end was a standout as a sophomore and will go far this season.

● Development of two sophomore line prospects at tackle (Bob Casciola) and guard (Dave Grubb). Strength of the right side of the line depends largely on their ability to rank as topflight varsity material.

● The running of wingback Bill Danforth, who played only six-man football before coming to college. He may be quite explosive from this position, particularly on the "inside sally," the reverse that bursts through tackles after a double handoff and fake to the tailback.

● The running, particularly in a broken field, of Royce Flippin, who needs only a little daylight to pick up five or six yards and only a couple of blocks beyond the line of scrimmage to rack up a long gainer. In 222 carries over two seasons, he has averaged 4.7 yards.

● A possible Rutgers victory. It's the "big game" for the Scarlet, the one they'd rather win in New Brunswick than any other all season long. The visitors figure to be markedly better than they have in the past two games which they lost by only two points. Unless Princeton likewise is away to a much faster start, watch out.

PHS Launching Season. Still uncertain about Princeton High School's football chances for the eight-game campaign ahead—or even his starting lineup for the first contest—Coach Joe Jingoli will lead his hopefuls out of town this Saturday to meet Leonardo High in the season's opener for both clubs. Last year, under similar circumstances, the " Little Tigers defeated Leonardo, 26-7, and went on to post a creditable 6-2 overall record.

Barring unanticipated developments between now and game time, Jingoli will count heavily on Captain Frank Di Meglio, described as "half the line." The big, 200-pound tackle, knocked out of action by a severely bruised shoulder in an early practice drill, was expected to be ready for anything—including 60 minutes of duty—when the whistle blows Saturday.

Paired with Di Meglio at the tackle slots will be veteran letterman Martin Caples, who blocked well and was a line standout during last week's rugged pre-season scrimmage with Freehold. At the end positions, Jingoli definitely will go with Lee Ammermann and Dick Hall, a towering twosome providing PHS with the basis for a strong passing attack.

Elsewhere along the forward wall, the Blue and White's 10-year mentor will not be sure of his starters until he knows whether PHS is to kick off or receive. If it's to be a defensive situation, John Smith will get the nod at center while Matthew Haufenmeir and Bob Buxton probably will fill the guard holes. In case the Little Tigers open on offense, Peter Smyth will be at center and Smith will move to a guard post, probably replacing Buxton.

Trotman A Sure Starter. Jingoli will certainly open his anniversary season with Marv Trotman at tailback and Nick Kovalchides at quarterback. Trotman, the Little Tigers' triple-threat performer and sole letter-winning returnee in the backfield, impressed coaches and spectators alike during the Freehold scrimmage.

Don Johnson, also hurt in an early drill and sidelined since, will be set to go Saturday and will divide wingback assignments with Jim Mauther and Allan Wauters. Hoyt Ellis and Carmen Cirullo will share fullback duties as Jingoli endeavors to determine his No. 1 eleven.

Against Freehold, in a session that was labeled "an excellent workout" with "just fair" results by Jingoli, the locals employed the services of some 60 varsity candidates. Blocking was not too good, timing was way off and the spinner pass sequence in the Little Tigers' single wing attack was attempted without noticeable success. Practices this week were aimed at erasing some of these damaging defects.

The PHS gridders will have further opportunity to polish their offensive and defensive assignments against Ernie Truean's Leonardo team, which uses a Notre Dame box formation and a balanced line. Aside from victory, Jingoli and his staff will be looking particularly for a defensive end and defensive tackle to plug glaring weak spots.

Softball Playoffs Start. Pennant-winning Nassau Social Club, which wrapped up its No. 1 position in the Princeton Community Softball League with a decisive triumph over the Eagles last week, was favored to succeed in the loop's playoffs that began this week. The top team was engaged in a three-game series against the Artistic Clippers, fourth-place club, in the final league standings, while Sunbeam, the runner-up team, was matched in a three-game series against the Eagles, who wound up in the regular season third place.

Following these two elimination series, called the semi-final round of the annual playoffs, the two winners will meet in a best-of-three set to determine PCL's post-season champion. The victorious team probably will be known by late next week, providing weather conditions permit ample opportunity for several games this weekend.

In downing the Eagles in the clincher, by a 7-2 margin, the NSC entry completed its summer's softball work with a lop-sided regular season record of 18 wins and only two losses. The team's fine hurler, Buck McCreedy, who pitched six-hit ball in stopping the Eagles, almost equalled the NSC mark as he registered a 17-2 record for the campaign.

Led by Jock Petrone, with three safeties, and George Sickle and Buck Cupples, with a pair apiece, the pennant-winners picked up three runs in the opening frame and went on to win without difficulty. Garry Olds and losing pitcher Jim Jackson each contributed two hits to the Eagles' effort.

Poor Crowd For Benefit. Two closely matched softball teams showed up for what turned out to be a good game and the cause was a worthy one, but only a handful of spectators made it to Marquand Field Sunday to watch the Princeton Stars play the Romeo & Juliet Cafe of Trenton for the benefit of the Billie D. Ellis Fund. Final results: a 5-3 victory for the locals and $65 for the fund, contributed largely by the cafe's owner ($25) and competitors from both clubs.

The few who did support the benefit contest saw the Princeton team jump on Butch Koreyva, Trenton hurler, for four runs in the first inning, a lead that held up all afternoon. George Sella and Jack Petrone collected two hits apiece, or four-fifths of the Stars' total output, and Lefty Tesuraro, with three for three, enjoyed a perfect day at the plate for the losers.

State Police Busy. Back in April, when the State Police hierarchy decided to split its two New Jersey troops into three and locate headquarters of the third and newest troop at Princeton barracks on U. S. 1, Capt. John C. Doyle faced a difficult problem of reorganization. Chosen to command the new unit—Troop C—he was asked to blend leaders and troopers of other groups, who were accustomed to a variety of operational methods, into a coordinated outfit, and he was asked to do it in a hurry.

Thanks to several years in the Navy and exactly 30 as a member of the precision-minded State Police, Capt. Doyle was well-prepared to meet the task. He flinched only slightly when he was told his headquarters group of 44 was to be situated at the Princeton station, built in early 1952 to accommodate a district contingent of 20 or less policemen.

This week, just six months later, the affable captain could point with justifiable pride at the work of his men and their resultant record. After an admittedly "rugged first month," Troop C was busy handling with dispatch the greatest volume of State Police cases (because it spans the active central section of New Jersey) and its top men had overcome the obtacles of their jammed headquarters.

Perhaps the most impressive part of the story about development of the Princeton headquarters was the fact that the troop members themselves pitched in—painted and became do-it-yourself carpenters—to transform the building's basement storage rooms into actual working rooms for some of the departments necessarily centered at headquarters. And Capt. Doyle was particularly pleased with the spirited manner in which his four lieutenants, each in charge of a different division, accepted the news that they were to be bunched together in one small room .

For an indication of the organizational job done in short order by Doyle & Co., one has only to consider Troop C's basic statistics: 202 men in 12 stations covering seven counties (Burlington to Somerset), or 2,463 square miles. Taking August as a sample month, the troop investigated 324 accidents (10 fatal ones), 72 major crimes, 44 secondary crimes and issued 3,287 summonses for traffic violations.

Of the 44 men stationed at headquarters here, 31 are primarily concerned with the troop's operation and the other 13 are assigned to the Princeton station, one of the dozen in Troop C. Under the supervision of Sgt. Francis I. Larson, station commander, the Princeton barracks is responsible for 126 square miles; i. e., complete jurisdiction in Mercer County's West Windsor Township, Middlesex County's Plainsboro Township and U. S. 1 and State Highway 27, plus jurisdiction on a cooperative basis with municipal police in five other townships (Princeton, South Brunswick, Franklin, Montgomery, Lawrence) in three counties (Middlesex, Somerset, Mercer).

One Day, Three Murderers. Troop C—and, with it, the Princeton station—obviously investigates a wide variety of cases due to its geographical location. What with main travel arteries slicing through it, traffic cases are heavy and so are cases which develop from errant automobiles, in which criminals often are discovered.

Capt. Doyle has been maintaining an arduous schedule since April and, for that matter, has seen lots of action in his 30 years of State Police endeavors. But, one day last week, Troop C experienced the busiest single, 24-hour period he can remember as its investigators tracked down and caught the killers in three separate murder cases— in Plainsboro, Bordentown and Jersey City.

A chip off the old block, John C. Doyle Jr., is stationed as a trooper with the headquarters section of Troop C. He and his father represent the first active father-son combination in State Police history and, to fill out the picture, Trooper Doyle also gained experience for his current work in the Navy. Capt. Doyle is pleased with his son's specific assignment — school education director of student patrols at 130 widespread schools in the area blanketed by the troop—as it is one of the few phases of State Police work wherein the lawmen are "doing something nice" for people.

Lt. Eric Hossack, executive officer with 27 years of service in the State Police, heads the group directly below Capt. Doyle. Other members of the higher echelon are Lt. Arthur Bencer, criminal division; Lt. Ralph Dowgin, traffic; and Lt. George Martin, operations. They supervise the troop's administration, investigators, identification experts, narcotics investigators and even direct the movements of two radar unit teams and a pair of truck-weighing teams.

COGS IN WHEEL: Top brass of the State Police's young Troop C, located at the Princeton barracks on U. S. 1, are shown busily engaged in their exacting work in the two photos on this page. At right, Sgt. Francis I. Larson, station commander of the Princeton unit (one of 12 stations in the troop), exhibits his fingerprinting skill and shows off new equipment for the benefit of obliging Pat Taraschi, a Princetonian who works for the State Police as an auto maintenance man and not against them, as the photo might indicate. Below, Capt. John C. Doyle (standing), head of Troop C, receives a message from Eric Hossack, the troop's executive lieutenant, who has just taken it from one of the unit's 202 men covering seven New Jersey counties. The map behind the lieutenant is used to spot State Police cars patrolling areas handled out of the Princeton, Hopewell, Hightstown and New Brunswick stations, thereby coordinating their movements.

Children Short-Changed

"Princeton really doesn't do enough for its children."

That opinion was voiced this week by Howard W. Stepp, juvenile referee, following a closed-door Borough Court session involving eight teen-age boys in two different cases. Complaints against the youngsters were dismissed after considerable discussion, but they underscored again the continuing presence of noisy, footloose groups in and near Nassau Street businesses that discourage adult trade.

Lauding the work of Princeton's community playground leaders, Mr. Stepp said he looked forward to construction of the new YMCA and he wished Princeton would think about building a much-needed community swimming pool as well as a teen-age canteen. The police expect teenagers to be exuberant, he explained, but not in busy shops on main streets —and that's why "gang" formations have been broken up throughout the summer.

Here are some reasons why so many Princeton home owners prefer oil heat:

- Less expense—gas costs up to 26% more.
- Satisfaction in service — automatic deliveries assure effortless heating.
- Dependable comfort, cleanliness — always even temperature, no hazardous fumes.
- Efficient operation — modern equipment and expert service men ALWAYS available.
- Equalized, planned payments — monthly budget plans mean fuel bills can be figured in with taxes and mortgage payments.

The casting of Miss Simpson is also on the remarkable side, since she is best known as the top fashion model who became the wife of William O'Dwyer, one-time New York mayor and Ambassador to Mexico. She has lately been appearing in stage and television comedies.

MUSIC CIRCUS

The grandiose production of "Kismet" continues at the Music Circus in Lambertville. The show will wind up the season at the tent arena theatre on Sunday, October 2. The season has set a record for length, with ten shows playing 18 weeks and giving 132 performances.

Ted Scott, Paula Stewart and Eleanor Lutton head the "Kismet" cast of more than 50, largest ever assembled for a Lambertville show.

THE PLAYHOUSE

The Private War of Major Benson (Sept. 21-24) rates a real hand for a harrelful of laughter stemming from a surprise direction. Charlton Heston plays a stiff army disciplinarian who gets stuck with the job of handling ROTC pupils at a boys' military school. Julie Adams, Tim Hovey and William Demarest are also featured. Color.

Pete Kelly's Blues (Sept. 25-27) finds "Dragnet's" Jack Webb in a different kind of role, that of a small bandleader harrassed by gangsters (thus preserving Webb's primary interest in mayhem). Janet Leigh appears as a frantic daughter of the jazz age, Peggy Lee as an alcoholic gangster's moll, and Edmond O'Brien as a politico-gangster.

Performances, careful production which does an excellent job of creating the speakeasy atmosphere of Prohibition days, a background of hot jazz music, and many other details serve to cover up much of the plot weakness in the melodrama. Well photographed in color.

Love is a Many-Splendored Thing (Sept. 28-Oct. 4) tells of a romance between a war correspondent (William Holden) and a half-Chinese, half-European woman doctor (Jennifer Jones). It finally ends up unhappily. The story takes place in picturesque Hong-Kong, and remarkable color and CinemaScope photography provides a wonderful setting. The emotional drama itself is drawn out further than it's worth. Here for a full week.

THE GARDEN

Doctor in the House. (Sept. 22) was the top British moneymaker last year and presents a superb cast in an amusing and occasionally side-splitting comedy of medical students at St. Swithin's hospital. Their troubles with money, exams, nurses and patients are depicted by Kirk Bogarde, Muriel Pavlov, Kenneth More, Donald Sinden and others.

Francis in the Navy (Sept. 23-24) is strictly for those who haven't experienced or haven't seen through the thin idea of a talking mule and comical friend (Donald O'Connor). The locale is shifted seaboard this time, but there's nothing much else that's different.

Footsteps in the Fog (Sept. 26-27) is a traditional murder film set in London of the early 1900's. It's high on mood, suspense and fine acting, rather than story. Stewart Granger plays a rich self-made widower, while Jean Simmons is also involved in the lethal activities. Filmed in Britain in Technicolor.

The Kentuckian (Sept. 28-Oct. 1) finds Burt Lancaster as a pioneer of the 1820's. There are brawls and other forms of action, romance, and many episodic qualities carefully handled to capture the frontier days in Kentucky, but the dramatic quality of the story is fitful at best. Technicolor and CinemaScope photography is handsome.

Full information on the program should be obtained at the YM at 120 John Street, since the fields and age groups.

Among the clubs will be the Hi-Y, Junior Hi-Y (sixth seventh and eight grades); Gray-Y (9 to 12); Radio Club (13-17); Rod and Gun Club (10 to 17), and Caddy Club (14 to 18).

Other regular features for boys are outdoor basketball, soccer, horseshoes, sel ball, table tennis, pool, shuffleboard, checkers, chess, darts, body building, table games and movies.

Superintendents to Meet. Communications from and to our public schools will concern New Jersey school superintendents when they convene for their 10th annual statewide meeting in Atlantic City next Wednesday through Friday. The school heads will discuss the manner in which they get information from and to the public at large, school boards and the teaching staff.

Princeton will be well represented at the conclave by Frederick M. Raubinger, State Commissioner of Education, who will address the closing session; John P. Milligan, Assistant Commissioner, who will preside over a main session of the conference; Kenneth Fink, director of the Princeton Research Service, who will be consultant at a forum on how to find out what the public thinks; Mrs. Bertha M. Eisenmann, Township superintendent, who will lead a discussion of the problems of smaller districts; and B. Woodhull Davis, superintendent of Princeton Borough Schools.

"Bride" Chosen. Miss Helen Neil has ben named as the "bride" for the fashion show to be held Wednesday, October 5, in the Princeton High School auditorium. She was chosen by popular vote for the event, to be co-sponsored by the Lions Club Auxiliary and the Business and Professional Women's Club.

For a winter coat, consider a short Borgana, made of an orlon that looks like fur. We saw it in champagne, but it comes in black or grey, too. Several coats are lined with "fur" this winter—a tweedy black and white has red "fur" inside, a white cotton and rayon mixture lines a black coat. It looks like sheared rabbit, but it's fabric. Won't ruh off on dark clothes, either.

Cuddlemoc . . . is a small knit moccasin in which you cuddle or in which you can be cuddled, for all we know. You knit it yourself out of fat Bernat yarn on big needles and it stretches to fit any foot, Bernat says. Costs $1 at The Knitting Shop on Tulane Street, in any of ten colors. Ladies knitting for church bazaars please attend.

Thick yarn and big needles are also used to make a bulky bolero with cuffed short sleeves. The pack costs $3.95, the needles are sizes four and ten, and there is red, charcoal, navy, white or yellow to choose from. A softer sweater is the Star-Spray shrug (has silvery lines laced through the yarn). This one is $5.95 and comes in many pastels, including lavender.

For Christmas knitting, the Shop suggests a 72-inch blazer scarf, $3.95 in a pack, half nylon, half wool. Matching socks in a pack are $1.98. Scarf and socks come in orange and black, and even in other colors, assuming there are any other colors.

Bazaar workers might like to make felt dolls at $1 each, in costumes from 12 different countries. They are Mimi Kay dolls, about eight inches high, colorful and not difficult to make.

This year's felt skirts are navy with colored discs to applique. There's also a mother-daughter pair in black felt with colored fish to cross-stitch. Skirts are ready-made, you know, and all you do is adjust the length.

Here's an apron for Christmas parties—a white felt scalloped tid bit with appliques of angels and ornaments, all spangled with sequins, gold thread and shining embroidery floss. Red rayon-linen placements are stamped and ready to embroider with metallic yarn and rhinestones. Four mats and four napkins in the Christmas design for $3.95. The Shop has some tea-towels with Christmas patterns, too.

If you like needlepoint, stop in at the shop to look over the new belts, brass-buckled and designed to be worked in gros-point or petit-point. There are bags, too, in tote or pouch design, and a small round gold compact with a needlepoint center to work. Later on there will be corde bags.

Pringle packs, those dyed-to-match combinations of yarn and fabric, appear this year in charcoal and pink. It's the same Holmspun Shetland, and soon there will be black and white and brown and white—but wait until October 15 for these.

"Gentleman's Choice" turns out to be—a pair of socks. They come in diamond clock or argyle clock at $1.60 the pack. The pack comes in navy or charcoal brown.

Incidentally, the Knitting Shop asks us to tell you that there is plenty of charcoal brown yarn. And if you're looking for a tweed yarn, there's Bernat's Glen tweed in pastels or darks, including charcoal. In fact, there are 24 colors in this half nylon, half wool sports yarn. Quick—the needle!

(1) Look first at the printed pages to see whether the Bible is easy to read. Don't judge only by the size or blackness of the print; some types of better design are more readable than larger or blacker types. A good test is to hold the Bible at arm's length and see if you can read it.

Don't expect "large print in a small Bible." As the Bible has three-quarters of a million words, it just can't be done, any more than you can put a quart of milk in a pint bottle.

(2) Look now at the binding. Bibles are bound in leather, artificial leather, and cloth. In buying a Bible, of all things in the world you will want good quality. The best kinds of leather include Morocco and Persian Morocco, and these will generally wear well for years. A cheaper leather, known as French Morocco, skiver, or sometimes "real leather" cannot be expected to wear as well.

(3) Consider the price. But don't expect to get a good lifetime Bible for less than you would pay for a pair of shoes or a handbag which may last only a few years.

News of the Churches

Christian Science Dedication. At three services to be held this Sunday, Christian Scientists will dedicate their church building on Bayard Lane. Although the church was completed five years ago, it has not been dedicated until now because it is the custom in Christian Science churches not to dedicate a building until it has been paid for.

Dedication will consist of the regular Lesson-Sermon and the reading of a short history of the church. In addition to the regular services at 11 a. m. and 8:15 p. m. on Sunday, there will be a service at 4 p. m. so that people from neighboring communities may attend. Friends of the church from Trenton, Somerville, New Brunswick, Freehold, Montclair and the Oranges are expected.

Princeton's Christian Science group was organized in 1914 and incorporated in 1928. From 1917 until 1950, the church met in the building on Olden Avenue now occupied by the Jewish Center. A Christian Science Reading Room was opened in 1928.

Nine years ago, members of the church purchased the Bayard Lane property and held their first services in the new building exactly five years ago, in September, 1950. The church accommodates about 200, and the Sunday School about 75.

Calvary on the Air. This Sunday for the first time a Princeton church will broadcast its sermon. The Rev. James H. Middleton, pastor of the Calvary Baptist Church, will preach at 11 a. m. over station WBUD, Trenton, 1260kc. this Sunday and each succeeding Sunday. His topic for this week is "A Shelter in the Time of Storm".

Baptists Convene. Delegates from two churches in the Princeton area will attend the 125th anniversary sessions of the New Jersey Baptist Convention, to be held at the First Baptist Church, Trenton, next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

The Rev. James H. Middleton and one other delegate will represent the Calvary Baptist Church, Princeton. Mrs. Archer Vaughn and the Rev. S. Robert Weaver will represent the Penns Neck Baptist Church. Members from both churches will also be present.

H. Theodore Sorg of Princeton will serve as host to the Baptist ministers of New Jersey at a luncheon to be held Monday at 12.30 at the Princeton Inn. Local Princeton clergymen and faculty members from the Seminary will be guests, and Dr. Edward L. R. Elson, pastor of the National Presbyterian Church, Washington, D. C. will be the speaker. Dr. Elson is pastor to President Eisenhower.

On Monday evening in the War Memorial Building, massed choirs from many New Jersey Baptist churches will sing three numbers under the direction of Dr. Clyde J. Holt of Westminster Choir College. There will be a historical pageant on Wednesday evening depicting 300 years of Baptist history in New Jersey.

Father Henry Chosen. The Rev. Father Edward C. Henry, pastor of St. Paul's Roman Catholic Church has been chosen as speaker at the annual service of the Mercer County Federation of Holy Name Societies, to be held this Sunday at 3 p. m. in Cadwalader Park, Trenton. This is the first time that Father Henry has preached at the Holy Name service.

An all-male choir of 100 voices will sing. Members of the choir have been chosen from churches throughout the state, and several men from St. Paul's will be in the group. The service will consist of the recitation of the Rosary, the sermon, the Holy Name Society pledge, and the Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament.

Relief Director to Speak. Dr. O. Walter Wagner, director of the Metropolitan Church Federation of St. Louis will speak at Avalon this Sunday at 8 p. m. under the auspices of the Unitarian Church.

Dr. Wagner, noted leader in world fellowship movements, has been European overseer for the "Save the Children Foundation", and has advised many American communities that have "adopted" towns in war-torn areas. He has aided in the rebuilding of German churches and hospitals, and has helped to establish a relief agency that is concerned with restoring

Your Franchised Dealer Stocks Enough Spare Parts to Pay for 10 New Cars
How would you like to wait 10 days for parts every time you needed repairs on your new car?
Your franchised new car dealer . . . with an average "parts inventory" of $23,650 could use that money to buy 10 more new cars for sale. But because he believes in SERVICE after the sale is made, he ties up that money in carburetors, nuts and bolts so that you can have factory-authorized repairs without delay.
You pay nothing extra for this protection and those who think they save by going to an unauthorized dealer may find they've made a costly bargain.

This Year's Country Fair. The annual event for both adults and children sponsored by the Lawrenceville Elementary School PTA—the gala County Fair—will be held this Saturday from 1 until 5 p. m. A tent measuring 40 by 60 feet has been set up on the school grounds to accommodate all comers, regardless of weather.

Parents of children in the elementary school and the pupils themselves are working on the event, which offers interest and entertainment for children and adults. Proceeds go towards financing the PTA program and projects in the coming year.

Mrs. J. Robert McNeil is general chairman for the fair. Under her charge, booths have been set up for the sale of various articles, food and soft drinks. There will be a midway and many games for children, including a "china breaking contest". Rides for children will also be available.

A special feature which has caught the attention of Lawrenceville youngsters will be the award of a "Power Car Junior", a battery-driven toy automobile.

The fair's special program book has been prepared by a committee composed of Mrs. Raymond Barrett, chairman; Mrs. John E. Dill, Mrs. Hugh Francis, Mrs. Lee Wiley, Mrs. George Gretton Jr., Mrs. John Ross, Mrs. D. C. Wyckoff, Mrs. John Wilkinson, Mrs. Alfred Pitman and Mrs. David Hullfish.

Record Enrollment. Inevitably reflecting the national pressure of more and more students seeking education, the Lawrenceville School settled into its 146th year on Wednesday with a record enrollment of 623 boys. The 548 boarding students will be housed in the school's sixteen houses, and there are 75 day pupils in addition.

Classes got under way after Dr. Allan V. Heely, headmaster, spoke at the convocation exercises.

The school's faculty now totals more than 80, with seven new masters taking up their duties this week. Among them are: Samuel T. Bodine, graduate of Princeton and Harvard, who will teach Spanish; Dr. Benjamin S. Custer, U. S. Naval Academy and Georgetown University, who will teach history; Edward A. Eames 2d, graduate of Amherst, also in history;

Also, Dr. Frank J. Groten Jr., Princeton graduate who will teach Latin and Greek; Keith D. Palmer, graduate of Cambridge University, who will teach science; George U. Whitehead, graduate of Cambridge, who will teach mathematics, and Wendell Frederici, Ursinus and Princeton graduate who returns after an absence of 11 years to teach in the mathematics department.

Football's A'Coming. Lawrenceville's Red and Black varsity football squad, looking with reason towards bettering a 2 and 5 record of last year, reported 65 strong to head coach Larry Tilhonen for early practice sessions.

Assisting with the coaching are George Schonheiter, Ken Keuffel for the Jayvees, assisted by Nick Gusz, and trainer Marshall Chambers.

A brief preview combining the prospects of "new boys" and nine lettermen from the 1954 array, headed by Captain Jim Legendre, the speedy left half from New Orleans, will be presented here next week, as the team makes final preparations for the home opener on October 1 at 2:30 against Hamilton High School.

The remainder of the schedule: October 8, 2:30 p. m., Princeton Freshmen "B", 15, at Blair Academy; 22, 2:30 p. m., Peddie School; 29, at Admiral Farragut Academy;

November 5, at Choate School; 11, 2:30 p. m., The Hill School.
